	Note: Adopted as “Resource Only”. Key Features: Goes beyond the traditional memorization approach to spelling instruction by focusing on the developmental aspects of word study that lead to strong spelling and writing skills. Focuses on word patterns and word features using high-frequency word lists to ensure transfer of spelling words to daily writing. Students can select from a Shopping List to replace any words they can spell correctly, can sort their words according to spelling patterns and word features, and support their generalizations by finding more words with similar patterns in their content area texts and other reading materials. Students create written text using their spelling words, practice proofreading skills, learn word histories, and review words through word play.

	Key Features: Includes a focused reading strand that teaches skills for reading expository, informational and expressive text. More than 60% of standardized testing deals with these sorts of text rather than literature so it is extremely important that students develop the skills to read them. The reading strengthens the writing as students learn the structure and elements of a particular mode of writing before attempting it. Carefully sequenced Writing Workshops guide students through the writing process and support their efforts at critical stages with a framework for every essay, full student and annotated professional models. The revision chart helps students locate weaknesses in their essays and gives specific revision techniques to correct them. Warriner's grammar, usage and mechanics uses the student-friendly model of rule, example, and practice. Each rule is given in red, making it easy for students to spot. The examples, with explanations in blue, make it easy for students to understand. Abundant exercises help students internalize the learning.

	Key Features: Provides balanced approach to grammar and writing. Each unit begins with appropriate grammar lessons and activities. Combining language skills with immediate application to writing, students learn through an integrated process. Writing skills and process are developed using a variety of modes and formats preparing students for writing evaluations as well as writing for the real world. Spiral reviews integrate mastery of skills taught in previous units. In each unit, mixed reviews help students retain what they have learned in that unit. A section of common grammar errors show students what mistakes to avoid. Trouble-shooter lessons provide additional instruction for hard- to-master skills. Each unit photo essays from "Time for Kids" help students focus the ways writers communicate. Students then learn the communication skills used in writing. "Seeing Like a Writer" feature in each student book motivate students to respond to visual prompts. Questions and activities incorporate grammar concepts and focus attention on the unit writing mode. Students are taken step-by-step through the writing process. Strategies and tips on presenting the published writing help students with listening, speaking, viewing, and representing.

	Note: Adopted as "Resource Only". Recommended as remedial. Key Features: Helps students learn to express ideas by writing sentences, paragraphs, and stories that articulate precisely what the writer wishes to say. Addresses essential skills with four instructional strands – Mechanics, Sentence Writing, Paragraph and Story Writing, and Editing. Lessons focus squarely on writing to close the gap for struggling writers very quickly. On-going skill development targets the problems most often experienced by poor writers. Four placement options in two distinct levels allow you to precisely meet learning needs. Carefully sequenced instruction moves students from simple paragraph writing to composing and editing sophisticated stories with varied sentences. Cumulative Check System permits rapid evaluation of student progress and reduces your work time. In-program Mastery Tests and BLMs provide an easy way to monitor progress and re-teach critical skills.

Key Features: Introduces higher-order thinking skills as the foundation for writing skills. At the earliest levels, lessons build around vibrant stories, giving students an awareness of logical connections and narrative structures. Students learn to organize their thoughts into words, first through oral activities such as storytelling and readers' theater, and later, on paper. By Level C, students are fully involved in the writing process and are developing consistent procedures for writing, editing, and revising their work. They learn to express their thoughts in a clear and consistent manner. They are shown how to critique their work as a reader would, thus eliminate possible sources of confusion. Reasoning and Writing combines instruction in writing with a strong skills orientation. From lesson to lesson, work on skills is integrated with writing. Students learn that spelling, punctuation, and grammar are essential to effective communication.

	Note: Adopted as "Resource Only". Key Features: Provides a systematic and efficient approach to teaching dependable spelling patterns. Every activity helps students recognize and apply spelling patterns, beginning with pattern sorting and building through spelling words in context, and defining word meanings. Rich cross-curricular connections reinforce spelling too. Consistent lesson organization permits teachers to "open and teach" efficiently from the texts. A CD-ROM correlates extra practice to lessons for home or classroom. Uses a variety of activities to help students recognize and apply spelling patterns: Phonics, Pattern Sorting, Word Meanings, Word Building, and Proofreading and Writing. Pattern-driven program focuses on teaching students dependable English spelling patterns rather than memorization. Focused, sequential, and systematic approach enables students to recognize, internalize, and remember patterns more effectively.
